Cast In Place Durability

Bomanite Renaissance is an integrally colored full depth cast in place or un-bonded topping concrete slab that once cured is ground, chemically hardened and polished. A very practical floor for high traffic applications where budget conscious decorative floors are needed, Bomanite Renaissance is the decorative ground concrete flooring with the longest lifecycle for the lowest cost per foot in the flooring industry. Even terrazzo can't beat a Renaissance floor.

REALIZE The Possibilities.

Colors Beyond the Norm

A Bomanite Renaissance floor colored with Bomanite Integral color will have the highest pigment loading in the industry. With a minimum loading of 3% and many colors as high as 7% on cementitious content, a Renaissance floor will be more consistent from pour to pour and maintain its solid color indefinitely, even after years of foot traffic and aggressive cleaning. Many Bomanite colors are lighter than the industry by using optical brighteners and more exotic shades of lightfast and alkali resistant chromium and cobalt to achieve a wider palette than typically available to most ready mix concrete producers. By depressing your structural slab and specifying Renaissance for the areas that truly matter, you can have an unbonded topping slab installed that allows for brighter and more exotic colors without having to color the entire structural slab. From 2" and up, Bomanite Renaissance can be used selectively and thoughtfully on your next project.

Imagine Your Aggregates

Working with a local Bomanite concrete expert allows you to understand the pros and cons of the aggregates available for your floors. The introduction of non-native aggregates is possible in order to take your Renaissance floor to the next level. Glass, granite, basalt, serpentine, marbles and limestones or travertine and porcelain are all able to be assessed for compatibility and utilized in a Renaissance floor. Pre-mixed in the concrete or hand seeded on top, these aggregates can take your floor to the next level, creating the beautiful expanse of deep aggregate exposure that is usually associated with terrazzo, for a fraction of the cost.
